WAS DEGLARED ITS PRESIDENT

Dr. W. W. Moore Formally Installed Executive Officer of Seminary.

IS WARMLY CONGRATULATED

Many Institutions and Friends Sent Letters and Telegrams of Greeting.

The inauguration of the Rev. Walter W. Moore, D. D., LL. D., as president of Union Theological Seminary in Virginia, marks an era in the history of this honored Presbyterian institution as distinctively as did the recent radical departure of the board of visitors from the time honored traditions of the University of Virginia in the election of Dr. Edwin

A. Alderman as the first president of that foremost of the South's institutions for secular education.

At the inaugural occasion last evening the charge to the president-elect was delivered by the Rev. Egbert W. Smith D. D., of Greensboro, N. C. Dr. Smith's D. D., of Greensboro, N. C. Dr. Smith a address was a scholarly setting forth of the position of the Christian minister in the world; of the prime qualifications necessary for the faithful fulfillment of the great work of preaching the gospel, and the vital position of the seminary and of the seminary instructor in the preparation of the young men for the theoretical and practical preaching of the cross to the present day men, women and children of the world. The ministrability of the principles of the world, the ministrability of the instruction of mankind in the principles of Christianity, and the power of knowledge of the message which he is called to deliver, wisdom in the application of that knowledge to the needs of men, but, above all, the power of character to impress men by his daily life with the living, vitalizing truths of the glorious gospel. The preparation of such men depends to a great degree upon the nature of the instruction received in the theological seminary. In closing, Dr. Smith spoke impressively of the position of great responsibility and trust to which the voice of the seminary and the church at large had unanimously called Dr. Moore. address was a scholarly setting forth of Union Theological Seminary in Virginia.

Dr. Moore's Response.

Dr. Moore in his inaugural address, spoke feelingly of the call of the seminary for his services twenty-three years ago; of his long and pleasant association with the board and with the faculty of the institution, and in a due sense of appreciation of the honor and of the responsibilities to which they lind called him in conferring upon him the presidency of an institution so completely devoted to the great work of preparing men efficiently for the ministry of the blessed gospel of the grace of God. He then spoke for an hour upon the most practical and vital questions which confront the church to-day in this department of her work, reviewing in detail the various reasons advanced from different sources for the decline in the number of candidates for the gospel ministry, ascribing to each due weight, and centering the force of his discussion on this point upon the decline in family religion, which is an important factor to be considered in the correction of the difficulty, and upon the lack of insufficient preparation of the young men before entering upon their theological course. This was indeed the burden of President Moore's inaugural address, and in a vigorous and eloquent manner he laid upon the church the solemn responsibility for the proper training of her candidates of Dr. Moore, Following the address of Dr. Moore, and the content of the proper training the address of Dr. Moore, and the content of the proper training the address of Dr. Moore, and the proper training the address of Dr. Moore, and the content of the proper training the address of Dr. Moore, and the proper training the address of Dr. Moore, and the proper training the address of Dr. Moore, and the proper training the address of Dr. Moore, and the proper training the address of Dr. Moore, and the proper training the address of Dr. Moore, and the proper training the address of Dr. Moore, and the proper training the address of Dr. Moore, and the proper training the address of Dr.

Censured.

The Police Board last night exonerated Sergeant Wright of any intentional wrong in going to New York after the alleged fugitive Smith, yet sustained Chief Lipscomb in his, attitude in reference to the matter. The Mayor was mildly censured in his action in the case, as the board felt he should have shown more deference to the feelings of the chief when he sent the sergeant away on the mission, without first consulting him. The board held a lengthy session. Chief Lipscomb was on hand early, prepared to go fully into the case, with Capitain George D. Wise as counsel. Sergemt Wright was without counsel, and stated his own case. He then raised the point

Wright was without counsel, and stated his own case. He then raised the point as to whether it were the proper thing for counsel on the other side. The point was considered by the board, and that body decided that each side could have counsel. Sergeant Wright waived his right, and the chief thereupon followed suit, and said he did not wish to handicap the sergent in his case.

right, and the chief thereupon followed suit, and said he did not wish to handicap the sergeant in his case.

The whole matter was gone through with. The sergeant stated that he had gone to New York by order of the Mayor and the Commonwealth's attorney. The question arose as to the right of either of those gentlemen to supersede the chief in matters pertaining to the conduct and discipline of the force. The Mayor showed by the charter that he had full authority in the premises to send an officer off on such a mission. The Commonwealth's attorney also showed that he had the power to detail a man whenever he chose to exercise that power. These two points were well taken, but the board thought that the chief should at least have been consulted in the matter.

In the testimony it was shown that the chief wished to send Officer Moore, and that the other two officials desired the case to be placed in the hands of Officer Wright, because they felt he was more experienced in such matters. Chief Then Absent.

The Mayor stated that he had recom-needed the sergeant as the man, in the mended the sergeant as the man, in the absence of the chief, who was in Alexandria. Commonwealth's Attorney Page said he did not wish to send any one on his own account, but wished the Mayor and the chief to get together on some one man. He advised them to do so, but as nothing was done on that line, he designated the man recommended by the Mayor, feeling that such deference should be shown him as the superior officer.

should be shown him as the superior officer.

At various periods during the hearing the principals to the affair professed toward each other the kindest of personal feeling.

Sergeant Wright said that if the board thought he had done anything intentionally wrong in the pursuit of his duties, he would there and then hand in his resignation.

would there and then hand in his resignation.

The chief said he felt hadly over the matter, as he felt he had been humiliated, and his prerogatives had been taken from him, but that if the board did not think him honest and conscientious in his duties he, too, would resign.

The board looked upon these two statements philosophically, for they knew the two officers in question were as good as could be found anywhere.

There were many spectators present, who took much interest in the proceedings. The meeting was held in the Mayor's onice.

"We find the charges of absence from duty without consent of the chief sustained, yet we exonerate Sergeant A. S. Wright from any intentional wrong or purpose to disobey the order of the chief, inasmuch as he acted upon written authority and order of the Mayor. And if any wrong was committed by Wright in absenting himself, the wrong ovidently was committed upon the supposition that the authority of the Mayor was superior to the order of the chief. The authority of the Mayor was his relations to the police are confined, is defined in the charter. Nevertheless, we are of the opinion that the Mayor should have advised with the chief before issuing any order concerning the detail of policemen for any specific purpose. We are further of the opinion that the chief need in accordance with police regulations in preferring said charges, and his action in the matter is unanilmously approved."

The report was sixned by Messrs. Per-due, acting chairman; Reams, Pottit, Ab-bott and Ferguson.

The subject was one of general discus-sion on the streets last night, and the ac-tion of the board was generally approved.

The general impression was that it was a matter that should never have reached the board, and the result was a pleasing one to the friends of all parties concerned,

Secretary of War Startles Railway Men at International Congress in Washington.

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 9.—Secre-tary Taft fairly took the breath of the three hundred railway men, members of the International Railway Congress, dining to-night as the guests of the American Rallway Association at the New Willard Hotel, when, after being introduced as "The Apostle from the Philippines," he emphatically declared that railway legislation must come; that if the railway men of the country were wise railway men of the country were wise they would aid and not hinder it. Absolute silence reigned as Secretary Taft spoke his mind on the subject of rates. He was positively against government ownership, he said, believing that nothing so delectrious could come to the country at this solution of the question. "But, he continued, "you cannot run railroads as you run a private business. You must respond to the public demand. If there is danger of discrimination, then you must allow the establishment of some tribunal that will remedy that discrimination."

The secretary saw no reason why a tribunal properly constituted should not be competent in every sense of the word to fix a maximum rate.

President Stuyesant Fish, of the American Rallway Association, answered the secretary at some length, taking the view that the law to prevent discriminate, double dealing and secretabates, was ample and he vigorously called for the enforcement of that law.

Secretary Taft asked for thine to reply called for the enforcement of that law.
Secretary Taft asked for time to reply and made himself even more positive as to his position in favor of legislation, which would create a tribunal with authority to name a maximum rate.

Mr. Fish again took up the argument, contending it was a question of fixing the price of the celler of goods.
